STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The following information is published in order that vessels in the Bombay Harbour may by comparison with a standard instrument, ascertain the errors of their barometers:—

The reading of the Standard Barometer at the Colaba observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 80 deg. F. and to the level of the tide, at 8-45 a.m. Standard Time on the 29th August 1914 was 29·968 inches. For temperature corrections applicable to marcurial barometers of ships the reading of the ship's barometer has to be increased or decreased by 0.13 inch. for every 5 degrees according as the temperature of the attached thermometer is respectively below or above 80 deg. F. In case of the aneroid no temperature or correction is needed. But for comparison at 80 F. all anerold reading should be increased by 138 inch. For correcting the ship's barometer either mercurial or aneroid for the height of the barometer cistern above the tide level in the steam at 8-45 a.m., Standard Time, the ship's barometer reading should be increased by 0.19 inch. for every 10 feet of the height to make it comparable with the observatory barometer reading given above.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

PRELIMINARY FORECASTS OF CROPS.

The following preliminary memoranda on the undermentioned crops in the Bombay Presidency, including Sind and Native States for the Season of 1914-15, have been issued by the Director of Agriculture:—

SESAMUN.

Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1912-13 the area under Sesamum in the British territory included in this forecast has represented some 7.8 per cent. of the total area under the crop in British India.

Estimates up to 1st August.—Information incomplete. Sowing still unfinished. Reported area for British Districts 2,48,000 acres and for Native States 2,52,000 acres; about 20 per cent. below corresponding area last year and 40 per cent. Under decennial average at same date. Continuous heavy rains have delayed sowings of early crop a fortnight to month in Gujarat and Kathiawar and late crop is not yet sown. Excessive rains have turned crop yellow in places. Elsewhere condition fairly good. In Deccan crop sown seasonably in second fortnight of June. In north, more area placed under cotton and other crops. Crop generally doing well except in north, where it suffers from excessive moisture in places. In the Karnatak early rains deficient and area considerably restricted. Sowings delayed a fortnight to month and crop sown just germinating. In Konkan crop sown normally in second fortnight of June and is doing well. In Sind, insufficient rains have restricted cultivation in Karachi and Thar and Parkar. In Larkana more area placed under rice. Elsewhere good water supply has extended cultivation. Crop sown timely in latter part of June and is doing fairly well.

SUGARCANE.

Note.—On an average of five years ending 1912-13 the area under Sugarcane in the British Territory included in this forecast has represented some 2.8 per cent. of the total area under the crop in British India.

Estimates up to 1st August.—Information incomplete. Reported area 41,000 acres in British Districts and 27,000 acres in Native States; 5 per cent. over corresponding area of last year and about 10 per cent. over average at same date. Plentiful water supply in wells and tanks induced larger sowings in the north; but in south, area somewhat restricted owing to its deficiency. Sowing season extends from November to June. Crop generally thriving everywhere.

EARLY COTTON.

Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1912-13 the area under cotton in the territory to which this forecast relates represents some 7.6 per cent. of the total area under the crop in the whole of India.

Estimates up to 1st August.—Information incomplete. Sowings continue in South. Reported area 1,782 thousand acres in British Districts and 12 thousand acres in Native States; about 10 per cent. over corresponding area last year and 32 per cent. over decennial average at same date. Favourable early rains induced larger sowings in the North where crops sown seasonably in first fortnight of June. In South rain deficient and sowings delayed a fortnight to a month. Crop thriving in North, but in places it has turned yellow owing to contrinuous rain and break badly needed for weeding. Elsewhere crop just germinating.

GROUNDNUT.

Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1912-13 the area under groundnuts in the British Territory included in this ferecast has represented some 17.5 per cent of the total area under the crop in British India.

Estimates up to 1st August.—Information incomplete. Reported area 98,000 acres in British Districts and 41,000 acres in Native States; 13 per cent. below corresponding area last year, but about double the decennial average at same date. Early rains favourable in north and here crop sown seasonably in second fortnight of June. In south, sowings delayed a fortnight to month owing to deficiency of early rains. Crop doing well at present everywhere.

PRETTY ROAD IN BOMBAY.

TO PERPETUATE LADY HARDINGE'S MEMORY.

Mr. P. R. Cadell, C.I.E., Municipal Commissioner of Bombay has addressed the following letter to the Corporation:—

"I have the honour to inform the Corporation that the new 60 feet road constructed from the B. B. and C. I. Railway Matunga level crossing past Lady Jamshedji Road to Mahim Bazar Road has been completed and will be open to traffic as soon as lamps have been erected. The road is already 3,100 feet long and will ultimately be extended across the two Railways and joined to the Improvement Trust Road on the east of the Matunga Station. On the west side it may ultimately be possible to continue it to the sea. It is thus an already important road and in its present condition is one of the prettiest in Bombay. I think it would be a suitable perpetuation of the memory of Lady Hardinge's visit to Bombay so shortly before her lamented death if the road were to be named after her and I propose therefore with the sanction of the Corporation to call the road the 'Lady Hardinge Road'."

THE ROYAL YAKUTI.

(ANANG VILAS.)

THIS YAKUTI or life-giving nectar has been prepared from the best, choicest and richest vegetable drugs. It has a wonderful property of increasing the nerve power and is a specific for diseases. This valuable medicine is used in large quantities among Rajas, Maharajas and many of our esteemed customers. But we have ventured to give it publication simply with a view to place it before the general public owing to the demand of several friends. It is needless to expatiate upon the magical qualities of this our invaluable medicine. We would not like to blow the French horn as is the fashion of the day, but suffice it to say that the use of this medicine is recommended to those who have any faith in the efficacy of Ayurvedic and Unani medicines. We recommend it also to those persons who desire to tone up the nervous system, to strengthen the body, refresh the memory, and to guard against debility. It works like a charm and the effect is lasting. It restores strength, and it is enough to say that musk is not that which a perfumer admires, it is that which diffuses fragrance of its own accord. Price per tin containing 40 pills, Rupees ten only. Postage extra. No PARHEZ necessary.

CRICKET IN BOMBAY.

BOMBAY GYMKHANA V. KATHIAWAR

FINE INNINGS BY H. H. THE JAM SAHEB

The two-days' match between the Bombay Gymkhana and a team from Kathiawar was resumed on Saturday on the Esplanade and resulted in a handsome win for the visitors. Overnight the home team had made 150, in response to which the visitors could only score 106. Thus on Saturday the Gymkhana entered upon their second venture with a useful lead of 44 runs, and they were expected to follow up their respectable total of the first innings with at least a decent score. They, however, failed to do much against the bowling of Oghad Shunker and Pereira, and they were all disposed of for 53. The visitors then knocked up the required number of runs to win the match, for the loss of four wickets.

GYMKHANA'S BATTING FAILURE.

The Gymkhana's second venture was little more than a procession to and from the wickets and lasted just over half an hour. Their batsmen presented an extremely sorry spectacle, none of them being able to make even a decent show against the Kathiawar attack, which was delivered by Oghad Shunker and Pereira, and only two of their men made double-figures. When they had only made 2, they lost Hurlbutt, who the previous day had knocked up 51 in fine style; and the second wicket fell at 16. Their only hope of making a respectable total now lay in Simms, but the total had been increased by only 2, when the Sussex all-rounder was given out l.b.w., to Oghad Shunker, and the hope of putting up a decent fight vanished. Thereafter the batsmen appeared to vie with one another as to who would get out quickest. The eighth wicket fell at 39 and though the next wicket realised 12, the end was not long in coming, and the Gymkhana's second innings terminated with the total at 53.

Kathiawar were set to make 98 runs to win the match, a task which, they performed for the loss of 4 wickets. The game was, however, continued and when stumps were drawn at 5 p.m., Kathiawar had made 150 for the loss of 5 wickets. Cheetham and Oghad Shunker, who opened the innings, gave the visitors a good start and at one time it appeared as if the pair would make the necessary number of runs without being separated. But the "glorious uncertainty" of cricket once more asserted itself, and, after Oghad Shunker had been sent back with the total at 67, Simms materially changed the aspect of the game by dismissing Cheetham one run later, and Miller without any addition to the total. Subsequently, however, H. H. the Jam Saheb and Bhusari added 28 for the fourth wicket, and a little later the Jam Saheb made the winning stroke.

JAM SAHEB'S FINE INNINGS.

Spectators turned up in much larger numbers than on the previous day to see H. H. the Jam Saheb, and they were not disappointed this time. The famous "Ranji" was perhaps not seen at his best, having apparently had only limited practice of late. He, however, treated the spectators to some of those inimitable strokes which have made his name famous all the world over, and the crowds wildly cheered him when he lifted a ball from his old colleague of Sussex over the ropes, and subsequently executed the favourite stroke named after his "alma mater" by cambridge—poking the same bowler for a couple. The large number of spectators, who had assembled were keenly disappointed when they found, on Kathiawar going in to bat a second time, that "Ranji" was not going to open the innings, and that he was to go in first wicket down. And their disappointment grew almost into positive despair when they saw the first two batsmen gradually running up the score without being separated. Then, however, a yell went up as Oghad Shunker was given out l.b.w., and there was another prolonged outburst of cheering as H. H. the Jam Saheb emerged from the Gymkhana pavilion. Only 31 runs were, however, wanted at this stage, and they did not take long in coming. Kathiawar had won the match, and the players were leaving the ground, when the spectators, apparently not satisfied with the limited opportunity they had had of seeing "Ranji's" play, shouted out: "Play on." Taking into consideration the wishes of the thousands of spectators that had come to see "Ranji" play, Mr. C. G. Stileman, the Gymkhana skipper, sportingly allowed the game to be continued, and stumps were drawn only when the Jam Saheb had been bowled.

The bowling honours of the day were carried off by Oghad Shunker, Pereira and Simms. The first-named, especially, bowled well, getting a lot of spin on the ball. B. Bhusari, and D. G. Hurlbutt were very smart behind the wickets. Durbar Shri Vira, and Mr. D. K. Kapadia umpired for Kathiawar and the Gymkhana respectively. Scores:—

The following are the result of the games so far played by the Aligarh College cricket team on tour in Bombay and Poona:—

The first match was against the Islam Gymkhana which ended in a draw, the college leading in the first innings.

The second match was with the Friends' Union. It was an unfinished game Aligarh making 41 for one wicket, the Friends' Union made 107 total for the innings.

Against the Hindus' Club, the Hindus made 42 in the first innings, and 95 in the second; the Aligarh College boys made 174 for the first innings, the College thus winning by an innings and 377 runs.

The first match at Poona was played with the Ferguson College in which Aligarh made 84 in the first innings and Ferguson College 75. In the second innings the Aligarh College made 250 for 8 wickets and declared, Fergusson College made 119 runs for 8 wickets. The game thus draw.

Against the Deccan Gymkhana the Aligarh College made 152 runs as against Deccan Gymkhana's 151. Play will be resumed to-morrow.

BOMBAY BANK CASE.

At the Mazagon Police Court on Friday, Rao Bahadur Chunilal H. Setalvad, Second Presidency Magistrate, resumed the hearing of the case in which Inspector E. Morris, C. I. D., preferred charges against (1) Shre Krishna Kothavle, (2) Malad Ganesh Kothavle, (3) Ruppchand Sampchand.

Mr. Gadgil, barrister, appeared for the second accused, and Mr. Balubhai Desai for the third accused, whilst Mr. R. S. Randil, barrister, watched the case on behalf of P. G. Vaidya, late co-manager of the Bombay Banking Co.

Mr. Rajwari, examined by Mr. Morris, stated that his nephew was the branch manager at Satara, and he was interested in the Bank. After the Bombay Banking Co., closed its doors he came to Bombay and there for the first time saw the third accused, Kothavle, accused No. 1, introduced him as the owner of the Wai Motor Car Co., who owed the bank a large amount of money.

Rupchand said he was willing to hand over his Motor Car business, woth Rs. 60,000, to the bank for Rs. 26,000 as part payment of the amount due. He had no reason to believe that accused No. 3 was not the owner, and the transfers and receipts were made out accordingly.

The case was adjourned to 3rd September.

ABOUT A LIQUOR LICENSE.

At Mazagon, on Saturday, Rao Bahadur C. H. Setalvad, Second Presidency Magistrate, was engaged in hearing the case in which Inspector Ragunathrao, of the C. I. D., charged Krishnarao R. Rane, an astrologer, Keshav Narayan Mantri, sub-overseer, P. D. D., Thana, and Ganpatrao Ramchandra Gupte, with cheating Luximan Narayan and Daji Govind, Hindus, in Mr. Vicaji for the complainants stated the facts of the cases. The complainant, Daji, wanted a liquor The complainant, Daji, wanting a liquor license, had applied for one last November, but failed. He saw the accused Gupte, who took him to Mantri, and subsequently they went to Rane at Juvem, near Andheri. That was in March, 1914. Mantri introduced Daji to Rane, and the latter having been told by Daji what he wanted showed Daji a photo-group in which there were a lady, a gentleman and Rane seated, and Mr. Smith, Assistant Collector, Customs, standing behind. Daji recognised Mr. Smith, and Rane said that it was Mr. Smith who was to be seen in the matter. Rane said Rs. 2,000 would be required for the purpose and Daji agreed. Daji then saw complainant Luximan at Byculla and asked him for a loan of Rs. 2,000 to get a liquor license. Luximan promised to help him on condition that he would try to get a license for him also. The two saw Rane after making an appointment. Rane showed the photograph to Luximan and said he must have Rs. 3,000 from him, and Rs. 2,000 from Daji to pay to Mr. Smith for the licenses. Luximan agreed and they left the place. On the 24th April last Luximan raised Rs. 3,000 from a Marwari on the security of gold ornaments of his wife and children, and subsequently took the money to Rane. But he said both the amounts should be paid at the same time. He said he would then take Rs. 2,500, Rs. 1,500 on Luximan's account and Rs. 1,000 on Daji's account, and that the balance might be paid afterwards when called upon.

HORNBY VELLARD CASE.

PRICE IN THE WITNESS BOX.

At the Mazagon Police Court on Friday, Mr. G. R. Kairaz, Fourth Presidency Magistrate, resumed the hearing of the case in which Inspector E. Morris, C.I.D., charged T C.W. Jones, for conspiring with Price and Donohue to commit the offences of impersonating police officers with a view to exlorting Rs.700 from one J.M. Tubac by alleging a criminal offence against him.

Price, in giving evidence said Jones, procured the cards printed "George Bolton, London and Bombay Police" and he handed one to Tubac, threatening him that he would take him to a police station. On the road from the Vellard to the station arrangements were made by Donohue that the matter should be settled. Donohue said "the offence is punishable with 7 years' rigorous imprisonment, but we will let you off for Rs. 700."

Failing to get Tubac's gold watch and chain they took two soveriegn charms, one of which was pledged the same night with a Marwari for Rs. 12, and the proceeds equally decided. Next day they took ten sovereigns from the Parsi, and divided them price getting £3-10-0 Dondhue £3-10-0, and Jones £3.

Arrangements were made to get a similar amount on the 4th July at the Victoria Gardens, but as there were detectives about, the money was not taken. Jones, who was watching from a distance, ran up and warned him that the police were on his track and they ran away.

Mr. Rose said he was the manager of the Railway Press. Jones was a clerk there. On the 2nd July he found the matrices bearing "George Bolton, Detective, London, and Bombay Police" in the drawer of a table used by Jones.

Rodrigues, the lino-type man, said he had made the matrices for Jones, and who said George Bolton was a London detective and a dear old friend of his father and that he wanted to do him a favour Witness asked Jones how many cards he had printed, and he replied none. Two days later witness saw from the papers that Jones was implicated in a case in which the cards had been used.

The case was adjourned to September 3rd.

POONA RACES.

POLISH PROVES HER WORTH

HUZAZ WINS A CLASSIC.

(By our Racing Representative.)

Speaking generally, the Sixth Day at Poona last Saturday, provided the most enjoyable day's racing we have so far had at Poona this season, and the attendance from Bombay must have strained the seating capacity of the special to its utmost. In fact the Conductor was so much exercised with regard to his ability to provide accomodation for the few early birds who availed themselves of the morning mail, so as not to prejudice the rights of those who had secured return tickets by the "special," that he suspended the privilege of returning to Bombay by his train to second-class coupon holders, who were informed, they must either purchase a first-class "special" ticket or remain behind, to be landed home with the milk in the morning, after an all-night experience in one or other of the creaking crawlers that ply by night between Poona and Bombay. One fussy little individual, whose Tote transactions had been regulated to such a nicety that he was not possessed of the wherewithall to secure a corner in the dog-box, not to speak of a first-class ticket, went off like a bunch of crackers, and insinuated, that as the fate of the Fmpire was more or less dependent on his presence in Bombay by midnight, it was taking a questionable advantage of a critical situation to mulct him in an extra ticket. For some reason the railway official appropriated this remark to himself in the light of a personal affront, and the peace of the station platform momentarily hung in the balance. Diplomacy, however, was resorted to and the crisis averted, the little fire-eater being allowed to proceed by the "special" under certain reservations. The little man confessed later on that his solicitude to reach Bombay by mid-night was not due to personal antipathy at being interned at Poona for a few hours, but that his fourteen-stone better-half's nature was not sufficiently confiding to swallow anything so thin as the ticket story without a little preparatory "salting." The moral is, for morning travellers to exchange their coupons for race-special return tickets before leaving Bombay, so as to avoid any arguments with over-zealous officialdom.

The opening event was the Captain's Plate; merely the Lamington Plate of the Fourth Day, dished up again, with a furlong less to travel. Spring Daisy was meeting Friendship at a nominal advantage of 4lbs, but as Spring Daisy is better over the more extended course, this advantage was more illusory than real, and her easy victory over Friendship last Saturday went very far to show that Brown's superior horsemanship on this occasion expressed in avoirdupois amounted to about a sack of coals.

The Moderate Plate provided a surprise, as it was quite out of the question to suppose that Malster, by his running in the Neral Plate on the previous Wednesday, could dispose of either Baloz or Zaki Pasha. He did so, and the big dividend of Rs. 201/8 was indicative of how lightly his chance was esteemed. On this running Malster should have accounted for Ace of Hearts and Maidania easily in the Neral Plate and the incident is a striking example of the risk a jockey runs in trusting to luck for getting through down the straight in a big field. When one only has a pound or two in hand it would be futile to throw this advantage away by shaping an outside course. But with stones in hand, it is simply suicidal to always depend on a wall of beaten horses pulling out to oblige one with an opening, when certain victory is assured by coming round without having to incur any obligations. Raspberry has certainly not fulfilled his early promises and appears to have become jadish. Guinea Mohur broke down completely again on his dicky off fore, and it is to be hoped this means his permanent retirement from the turf. It was a pitiful sight to see him hobbling home on three legs.

North was made a warm favourite for the Newbury Plate; but from his appearance was far from being in fighting trim; in running second under these circumstances he put up a highly creditable performance. Katharos's previous essays over short courses were distinctly disappointing, and in winning the Newbury Plate over a mile comfortably showed that she is much to be preferred over a journey. If she is not too light to hump a bit of weight she would make an admirable hurdler.

The Matheran Plate was a terribly mixed up affair, and the best horse at the weights certainly did not win. From the bend home the field looked like a cavalcade of untrainer troopers indulging in a charge, and Ruiz very cleverly taking advantage of the disorganised scramble managed to get Triumph clear of the ruck and home first by a narrow margin. Shanghai should have won by lengths, but Mr. Talib's horse was fractious at the gate; got away badly; and was bumped and knocked to pieces in trying to get through down the straight. Malacca was much fancied for the race, and just managed to save his place money. He will probably do better next time when there is more racing and less polo about the concluding stages of the race. "Peter Jackson" has still to find his Eldorado; Saood and Faleh Khan will probably surprise us some day; and Black Ivory gallops in quite a ship-shape, business-like way. These are all more or less good, but don't forget Shanghai in a moderate field of eight to ten starters.

With only 8st. 5lbs. on her comely back, the Poona Plate was a gift for Polish. Robinson has got this mare into the pink of racing condition, and it must have been a sentimental regard for Kempion that induced his admirers to fritter away their money in backing his chance against Polish at the weights, after an ocular demonstration of the latter's capabilities when she smothered Hoppner in the Ascot Plate carrying 9st. 12lbs. in 1 min. 2 secs. Ruiz had only eyes for Kempion, and as he was not on the rails, it was a little injudicious of him not to keep at least half an optic on the other side. From the distance Kempion was beaten and obviously stopping. Ruiz eased Polish accordingly, and Southall taking in the situation, set old Lumination going at such a rattle she got up to Polish's girths before Ruiz was able to wake up to the situation. Everyone will rejoice when Mr. Garda's mare succeeds in claiming a bracket, and it is to be hoped the handicapper will bear this in mind. She has tried, tried and tried again, and it is quite time the proverb should be brought to completion with just a modicum of success.

Huzaz again! The easy winner of the First Aga Khan's Commemoration Plate, and three weeks ago Beethoven, Makbul and Saood all made a hack of him in the Ahmednagar Plate over 7 furlongs, at practically level weights,—a record which has probably no parallel in the history of the turf. With such a capacity for improvement, nothing short of 14 stone should be allotted to this equine marvel when the weights for the Governor's Cup come up for discussion. Tajilmulook seems to have lost his dash and with his comparatively light impost should have put up a better show. Nakib is looking splendid, and at even weights over a bit of a journey is the best Arab in the country,—Huzaz's possibilities, of course, always excepted, as the lawyers say.

There is not much to be said about the August Plate, except that the writer would wager his last stitch of wearing apparel on Pry in his present condition to beat Lumania, giving the latter 10lbs. Tartania never was, is not, and never will be any class with Paul Pry over six and seven furlongs. Hamara put up a very disappointing performance, and should have been much closer up in this company. Meddling ran very well, but had seven pounds too much as compared with Tartania.

What went wrong with Hidalgo in the Matheran Plate? After running along a furlong or two he closed up like a jack-knife. There seemed to be nothing squibby about his previous five-furlong effort, he gave indications on that occasion of being capable of going round the course. As Billy Cowell the late jockey once remarked to an owner on dismounting after a disappointing performance: "You forget, sir, that horses like ourselves, must sometimes be subject to headaches." Hidalgo must have had a headache. There was nothing wrong with Haify on Saturday, who won the race with a good deal to spare.

QUADRANGULAR CRICKET.

MAJOR MISTRY UNABLE TO PLAY.

Major K. M. Mistry of Patiala has finally intimated to the Parsi Selection Committee his inability to play in the Quadrangular tournament as he has not been keeping good health of late, and also because he might be called upon at any moment to join the Expeditionary Force.

A. H. Mehta of Kashmire was asked to come down to Bombay at least a fortnight before the commencement of the tournament to enable the Committee to judge his form prior to a final selection; and as he has not yet done so, he stands little chance of being selected.

The Parsi Selection Committee meets today at 6-45 p.m., when the team will be finally selected.

The Mahomedan Selection Committee will meet meet probably, on Thursday.

THE first consideration in the ordering of clothes is the Materials. No matter how well-made the garments may be, unless the material is above reproach the result cannot be satisfactory.

ASQUITH fabrics not only possess special merit, but they never vary in quality—there is no second best.

Moreover, there is always about an ASQUITH suit a subtlety of style which is at once apparent even to the casual observer.

THE WAR ON LAND AND SEA.

The break in the long silence in the North Sea,—or it has seemed a long silence, though three weeks is not a long time in a great war,—is eminently satisfactory. It is the more satisfactory in that it has come in a form that assures us that the British naval service has not lost its famous characteristics of daring and deadly efficiency. Nelson's great principle, to seek out the enemy and destroy him, has not been forgotten. Some people seem to have supposed that British naval action in the North Sea must be confined to the "strangulation" of German commerce, so long as the enemy's ships remain in their harbours, or within the protection of their mines and fortifications. It is true we cannot call the enemy out to battle in the open sea if he elects to remain in his protected waters. But Admiral Jellicoe and his commanders have shown very effectively that, under modern conditions the British Navy, is not to be deterred from the pursuit of its old offensive tactics, and if the enemy does not choose to come out, he can still be harried by such daring exploits as that which has just been performed off the coast of Heligoland with such striking success. The whole operation reveals the British Navy working with that courage and splendour of efficiency in its every arm, which for more than a century has been the pride of the Empire, and which none who has cared to study the service during recent years believed that it had lost. This comparatively minor exploit, in itself, teaches many valuable lessons and has done much to justify, in many respects, British naval policy. It has demonstrated that the "big ship policy" was not a wasteful error in the face of the development of the submarine, that the Germans cannot interminably count upon the protection of their fortified coasts and mined waters, and that, if Sir Percy Scott was wrong about the submarine, the service he rendered the country in the improvement of the gunnery of the Navy, was of immense value. The British guns, say the German survivors, were fired "with terrible accuracy", and swept the decks of the German warships. Thus the damage inflicted must have been greater even than has been actually definitely ascertained. Two destroyers, and two protected cruisers were sunk, and a third vessel, whose class is not mentioned, disappeared in the mist heavily afire and sinking. This was substantial damage for a daring raid on the enemy's fleet under conditions of great risk. But it may be assumed that there were other German vessels which escaped from the "deadly accuracy" of the British guns anything but unscathed. In the circumstances the damage sustained by two British vessels and the comparatively trifling casualties may be regarded as a very slight price to have paid for an operation that must have been as damaging to the enemy's morale as it was to his ships. It is equally satisfactory to learn that the recent escape of two German cruisers into the Dardanelles was not apparently due to any fault of the British Admiral in the Mediterranean. Sir Berkeley Milne's conduct has been enquired into by the Admiralty and he has been exonerated. Perhaps we shall learn more later on of an affair which had caused considerable misgiving.

There is little news of a definite character as to the progress of the campaigns in the North-East of France and in Lorraine. We need not be pessimistic, however, about the silence. Such news as we have is satisfactory. It is apparent that the German advance from Namur has been achieved at very great cost. As the French Government puts it the Allies have unflinchingly received the most formidable hurricane of steel and fire ever let loose upon a people. There is good ground to believe that the German forces engaged in the invasion must be suffering from considerable exhaustion. Those who are inclined to exhibit alarm at the progress that the Germans have made in this area of the war,—"The Pioneer" publishes quite a "panicky" comment on the subject,—cannot have made themselves very fully acquainted with the strategical scheme to deal with such an invasion which has long been the property of military experts, and which contemplates almost exactly the events that have occurred. We have no misgivings, ourselves. The Germans are advancing to their destruction and when the time comes for their undoing, they will not be any the better off for being so far from their own frontier. Already there is news that a whole army corps has been withdrawn to assist in meeting the Russian advance in the East. If the reduction of the forces engaged in the invasion of France has begun, it must be the beginning of the end. Germany has played her stake and failed in her grand plan for the dealing of such an effective and rapid blow at France, as would enable her to turn with safety to meet the Russian danger. The Allies have still, no doubt, a formidable task to face in France, but the original German scheme has been foiled.

A VALUABLE OFFICIAL REPORT.

The publication, known as the Annual Review of India's Trade, is one of those exceedingly interesting and useful serials which are yearly issued from the various important departments of the Government of India. But the one just published for 1913-14, is a record one, and far surpasses all its predecessors in the matter of the rich economic facts, almost embarrassing in their profusion, it records. The more that the Statistical Department of the Government undergoes various improvements from time to time, the more it becomes valuable to the publicist, who has to digest the mass of facts recorded, analyse them in the order of their importance, and present the result of his assiduity and close examination to the general public in the form of what may be called economic tablets,—official pabulum specially manufactured for easy digestion and quick understanding. In these columns we have more than once drawn the attention of the statistical authorities to the importance and value of crucial statistics in matters of railway and irrigation, foreign and inland trade currency and coinage, revenue and expenditure and so on. The annual serials are no doubt now and again improved. But what now requires to be done is to stereotype, once and for all the most important and salient statistics, of almost daily use and reference, not only by the publicists but by the ever growing circle of merchants, bankers, traders, and generally by "the man in the street." In many of these annuals there are marked defects in tabulation, and many more in the discrimination of the tables themselves. In other words greater and closer attention requires to be paid to what is important, and to separate it from the unimportant. There is such a superfluity of what is unnecessary, and such a gruding economy of the really crucial figures, which play a dominant part in the Empire's economics, that we are constrained to observe that the sooner the Statistical Department sets to work to sift the grain from the chaff the better.

We are rejoiced to see, however, that the special publication, now under review, is one of the ideal publications for which we have long yearned. Piece by piece the Annual Trade Review has undergone a vast improvement. If the earliest issues under the able editorship of Mr. O'Connor, a Civilian to whom we are greatly indebted for laying the foundation of statistics on a scientific basis combined with popular utility, are compared with those under the late Mr. Noel Paton, an accomplished economist and statistician, and again with those now under the new editorship, we can see the progress that has resulted almost in perfection. We cannot on this occasion withold our meed of praise from Mr. Shirras for the admirable compendium he has given to the Indian public. At every turn we discern the result of his labours, in company with Mr. Dalta, in respect of the arduous, most difficult and complicated investigation which has been carried on in reference to prices of food and wages and which is, we understand, now nearing completion. We look forward to this with the keenest interest. Meanwhile we many congratulate this able officer on his first attempt at the Trade Review, and the new departure he has taken in its presentment. It fulfils the expectations raised by the entrusting of this task to an officer who comes fresh from his labours in the matter of prices.

We are not now tantalised by the omission of certain needed commercial statistics. The one important desideratum hitherto was the correct assessment as to values of the immense inland trade,—the trade which is the backbone of the country, and the trade which annually requires more and more capital for its financing. The first attempt is good and we doubt not experience will by and by suggest great improvements which are certain to be appreciated by those interested in the trade. Dividing the Report into parts and relegating to Part II. most of the utilitarian statistics is an excellent arrangement. We are now posted up to date in every branch of India's seaborne trade. Not only are we treated to the foreign trade by sea. We are made fairly acquainted with the value of the inland trade and the percentage of our exports to it. Then, the coasting trade is brought into line. There is, however, no record of that "unregistered trade" from the Portuguese and French possessions and from the majority of the Native States. But it should not be difficult to organise a well-considered and practical scheme to bring under the statistical record this unrecorded trade.

Notes of the Day

India and the War.

Lord Crewe's eloquent tribute to the value of the Indian Expeditionary Force, which is to fight side by side with the British Army in Europe, as well as the unanimous acceptance of that decision by the British press and the public as "a magnificent outward proof of the unity of the Empire" will be received with intense gratification in this country. By the magnificent devotion to Imperial interests which India has displayed during the Empire's crisis, and by the sacrifices she is eager to make in the Imperial cause, the people of this country have revealed a loyalty for which history furnishes no parallel. The attitude of the average educated Indian at this juncture may be said to be, in nearly all respects, identical with that of the educated Englishman, not because Germany is grudged her power and prosperity, but because the insensate ambitions of the Kaiser and his war party have made Germany a danger to the world's peace and progress.

Bengal and the War.

We learn from a Calcutta paper that Mr. Surendra Nath Mukerjee, a postal employee, has been ordered to Europe as head clerk in the post office at the base of operations, and, as a consequence, more than twenty clerks in the Director-General's Office have applied for service with the Expeditionary Force. We also learn that, although for the present the Government is unable to accept the offer of a voluntary ambulance corps, the centres of recruitment are being deluged with applicants, so much so that the "Bengalee" is of opinion that 10,000 men can be got ready in a month. Some of the applications for enrolment are not without pathos, but one and all seem extremely eager to participate in some form of active service. As the "Bengalee" points out, "It is a golden opportunity that has presented itself and the rulers of India would act wisely and in the spirit of true statesmanship to turn it to good account."

An Indian Scientist.

We had occasion recently to refer in these columns to the brilliant scientific work of Mr. C. V. Raman, who was nominated the other day to the Palit Chair of Research in Physics at Calcutta. An appreciative review of Mr. Raman's researches in Acoustics appears in the Supplement to the "Annalen Der Physik" which is the leading organ of Continental physicists. The review is written by a professor who is himself a specialist in the subject and lays great stress on the importance and the interest of the numerous results secured by Mr. Raman in this subject, the Bulletin of the Indian Association for the Cultivation of Science in which form the work was originally published being singled out for special notice. The American Physical Society has recognized Mr. Raman's work by republishing in the current issue of its Journal, an illustrated account of the leading results of his researches. In the current issue of the "London, Edinburgh and Dublin Philosophical Magazine," there appears another appreciative reference to Mr. Raman's work in optical theory in a mathematical paper by an investigator engaged in similar research work.

THE REAL KAISER.

THE MAN WHO HAS MADE THE WAR.

WHAT HIS PEOPLE THINK OF HIM.

The following character sketch of the Kaiser is taken from impressions gained at first hand from the German people. It has been written specially for "The Chronicle."

The Kaiser has been for years the most prominent monarch in Europe, not necessarily because he is the most eminent but merely because he has now for sometime insisted on pushing himself on a wondering world. His indiscretions fair and full, recorded by the servile Prussian Conservative Press, and eagerly awaited by the civilised world, have attracted undue attention towards him and given rise to many misconceptions. It may be admitted the Kaiser is probably the most energetic Sovereign in the world, and the modern German naval power is entirely of his creation. The army is run by the Prussian Aristocracy incidentally by the Kaiser, as head of that body. But here the Imperial glory comes to an abrupt end. It was said of Louis XIV that "minus his wig he was an insignificant old person;" it can equally be said of the German Emperor that minus the famous eagle helmet, he becomes an ordinary Prussian gentleman, with the ordinary prejudices of that caste. Contrary to public conception in Europe, the Kaiser is by no means taken very seriously or very respectfully by the Berlin populace, amongst whom he lives and the aristocracy only smile at his extravagances. Of course, the Prussian is loyal to the Kaiser, as an institution and simply because the Kaiser is the most Prussian of all the national institutions.

Once I was walking with a Prussian down the Unterden Linden, when an Imperial motor slowly passed by conducted by a gorgeous gold-laced person. My companion immediately stopped dead and raised his hat. There was no one in the car and the blinds were drawn. I made a remark to this effect,—but I was very complacently told that, the car being empty did not matter. It was an Imperial car and hence the hat-lifting, a part of the most Prussian of national institutions. There is no personal loyalty to the Kaiser, as there was in England to Queen Victoria and Edward VII, and as there is for King George. With his people he hardly comes into contact, spending his leisure shooting with his nobles and his hours of work with his armaments.

The German people deeply deplore the Kaiser's indiscretions,—for they feel that through him the whole country is made the laughing stock of Europe. Dozens of Germans whom I have met have told me that outside Prussia, the Emperor is anything but popular, amongst civil or military people. His domestic relations are proverbially bad and his elder son has been practically exiled from Berlin for some time. The Crown Prince is extremely popular and the nation resents that the Kaiser, for purely family grievances should exercise authority in his military capacity and subject his son to all sorts of undignified chastisements and send him to outlandish garrisons.

The German people who like the English are a domesticated race, have never forgotten the Emperor's treatment of his mother, whom on the death of the late Kaiser, he caused to be placed under military arrest, because she refused to hand over some papers at the imperious demand of her undutiful son. His constant wrangling with his ministers and the eternal changes in his entourage proclaim him a man difficult to live beside.

By the younger officers of the Prussian Army the Kaiser is idolised as the War Lord, who may always be relied on to support the action of any drunken Prussian officer, who may stab a civilian with his sword for a purely imaginary offence. The senior officers resent the Emperor's interference, for contrary to the general idea, the Kaiser is anything but a capable officer. A lover of parade and theatricality he insists at manoeuvres on all sorts of moves, impossible in war. Squadrons of cavalry gallop down on battalions of infantry whilst the War Lord, amuses himself by admiring the spectacle, surrounded by parasitical Junkers, from a neighbouring hill.

On one occasion not long ago the Emperor took command of a force at manoeuvres, and, not content with directing its operations, insisted on sending aide-de-camps to the commander of the opposing force, "with Imperial advice" as to the moves he must execute. The said commander promptly placed each succeeding A.-D.-C. under military arrest, for entering "hostile country." His A.D.C.'s not returning the Kaiser rode over himself,—whereupon the old general rode up to the War Lord saying, "I arrest your Majesty. You are my prisoner of war." The officer was deprived a few weeks later of his command, but the dismissal was accompanied with a third rate decoration.

The whole German nation was disgusted. The Court at Berlin is Prussian,—the outer German aristocracy being barely represented. Among the latter however the Crown Prince and Princess are adored and their Palace is the rendezvous of all that is elegant and intellectual in the capital.

The future occupants of the Throne are intensely democratic and are said by many Germans to be the pillars of a dynasty, which the Kaiser's eccentricity and arrogance have belittled in the eyes of Europe.

GERMANS WITHDRAWING TROOPS FROM BELGIUM.

VICTORY IN THE NORTH SEA.

FIVE GERMAN SHIPS SUNK.

DARE DEVIL FEAT BY THE BRITISH FLEET.

HEAVY FIGHTING ON LAND.

GERMANS DRIVEN BACK IN THE NORTH.

RUSSIANS INVEST KOENIGSBURG

The most significant piece of news received since Saturday afternoon is that the Germans have begun to withdraw troops from Belgium to meet the Russian advance.

The silence of the North Sea has at last been broken. For three weeks or more we have been waiting for news of what our fleet was doing there, but beyond a brief intimation that the "steady, silent strangulation" of German trade was proceeding—in other words that the British fleet had instituted a blockade—and one or two other telegrams, nothing had come through from there until Saturday. And then came a message, amplified yesterday by other telegrams, which showed that Britain's sure shield had simply been awaiting its opportunity. On Friday, it appears, a strong force of British ships, destroyers and submarines enticed but the German destroyers and cruisers which were guarding the approaches to the coast, and after operations lasting eight hours emerged completely victorious. The Germans were caught unawares in a thick haze, two cruisers and two destroyers were sunk, and another cruiser, heavily a fire and sinking, disappeared in the mist. Several other German ships were damaged, while the British fleet, escaped with only slight damage to a light cruiser and a destroyer. The British gunnery was described by German survivors who have arrived at Harwich as terribly accurate, the decks of the German warships being swept practically clean of men. The exploit was evidently one of dare-devil daring, for the British ships and destroyers had to traverse a mine-strewn sea to tempt their opponents out.

On land there has been much fighting. In Lorraine both armies are reported to have suffered appalling losses, and both are reported to be frightfuly exhausted. The Germans seem to have suffered particularly severely. They came on in solid squares, and, in the language of a British sergeant, writing from the front: "We couldn't help hitting them." In one engagement, two German regiments were so decimated that they were amalgamated into one, and of that one only sixty men remain. In another case, five thousand German cavalry attacked a party of seven hundred British infantry who were awaiting relief. The British kept the enemy at bay, dealt out death wholesale, and finally the 300 survivors of this gallant band fell back in good order on Cambrai.

In the eastern theatre the inexorable march of the Russians' proceeds apace, and the latest news is that they have completely invested Koenigsberg, one of the strongest fortresses in East Prussia.

The announcement that Indian troops are on their way to France, there to fight side by side with the British soldiers will be received with the greatest satisfaction throughout this country.

Further stories of German brutality and vandalism are coming to hand. Near Louvain the Germans were defeated by the Belgians, and when the routed troops were falling back in disorder, their comrades in Louvain fired on them, mistaking them for Belgians. Then, to cover their mistake, they pretended that the inhabitants of Louvain had fired, and in revenge burnt the town, shot several notable personages, made the men prisoners, and put the women in trains for an unknown destination.

GERMAN BRUTALITY.

DESIGNED TO CAUSE PANIC.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

LONDON, August 29.

Evidences are accumulating that German brutality towards the population in the enemy's country is a factor in their military policy.

This is especially indicated by the fact that this brutality is worst where the Germans are advancing, and less marked once a district is thoroughly occupied.

A communique issued by the Official Press Bureau in Paris emphasies the impolicy of publishing facts regarding German brutalities as panic among the inhabitants before the German advance is thus increased, the fugitives choking the roads and hampering the French armies on the march, which is one of the objects of the German brutalities.

HOME AFFAIRS.

INDIA'S SHARE.

OUR TROOPS TO FIGHT IN FRANCE.

LONDON, Aug. 28, 3-15 p.m.

In the House of Lords to-day, Earl Kitchener announced that in addition to the reinforcements which would shortly be received from Great Britain, the Government had decided to increase our army in France by two divisions and a cavalry division from India. (Cheers). The first division was en route. Earl Kitchener added that all the wastage in the army in France was being filled up.

The Marquis of Crewe then made on explanation of the employment of Indian troops. He said it had been deeply impressed on the Government that the wonderful wave of enthusiasm and loyalty throughout India was largely due to the desire of the Indian people that Indian soldiers should stand side by side with their comrades in the British army. India was aware of the employment of African troops by France, and there would be disappointment in India if Indians had been debarred from participating in this war.

The Army would thus be reinforced by soldiers who were high-souled men of first-class training, and he was certain they would give the best possible account of themselves.

Despite the heavy drafts on the Indian army, the Indian frontier would be adequately secured, and Lord Crewe believed that the enthusiasm pervading all classes and races in India would render internal trouble absolutely impossible.

WAR TELEGRAMS.

LONDON, Aug. 28.

In his speech regarding the despatch of the Indian troops, the Marquis of Crewe described them as high-souled men of first-rate training, representing an ancient civilisation.

He continued: "I venture to think this keen desire of our Indian fellow-subjects to co-operate is no less gratifying than is the same desire of the self-governing Dominions, some of whose troops will be found side by side with British and Indian troops."

India did not possess an inexhaustible reservoir of troops but there was scarcely a possibility of external aggression, and the Indian frontiers had been adequately secured.

The enthusiasm awakened by our resistance to an unprovoked attack on our Allies rendered any internal trouble impossible. It pervaded all classes and races.

Lord Crewe concluded: "I feel confident that action we have taken will meet with the most enthusiastic reception in India." (Loud Cheers).

POSITION REVIEWED.

ALLIES IN VERY STRONG POSITIONS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, Aug. 28.

The "Pioneer's" London correspondent cables under date August 26th:—

"Considerable divergence of opinion is shown concerning the precise significance of the Allies' retirement to the Lillemaubeuge line, and the German successes in the Namur region. It is universally agreed that the present positions are very strong, the Allies are probably numerically superior, and it is also known that the German losses were extremely heavy. The British artillery and infantry had a deadly effect on the massed Germans.

As an example of British coolness, a witness mentions seeing British soldiers on the canal banks at Mons quietly fishing with bayonetted rifles as fishing rods while heavy firing was audible in the distance.

The fighting at Charleroi between the French and Germans was particularly ferocious, the streets being so jammed with dead says "The Times" correspondent, that the killed remained upstanding resting against heaps of corpses. The French Algerian troops showed special gallantry in charging the Germans, losing themselves 90 per cent.

The Russian advance is continuing. Three armies altogether are advancing, one against Posen.

An official Belgian communique, following a similar protest by France, gives detailed instances of rape, looting, burning, murdering, and mutilating by Germans. The British Press Bureau, in issuing this for publication, remarks that the Germans are behaving better in the large towns. Atrocities in the country are apparently committed with the deliberate object of terrorising the populace in the interest of their lines of communication.

GERMANS TAKEN TO AHMEDNAGER.

The Germans in Bombay have been taken to Ahmednagar, where it is understood their countrymen from other parts of India are to be interned. About 40 left under escort on Saturday night, and an equal number yesterday morning.

JAPANESE DINNER.

A dinner to the Japanese colony in Bombay was given at the Taj Mahal Hotel on Saturday night by Mr. T. Morioka. There were sixty guests present, all Japanese and including half a dozen ladies.

BRITISH AND GERMAN PARTNERSHIP.

The following Press Note was issued on Saturday.

A large number of applications for trade licenses have been received from firms in Bombay which are wholly or partly German or Austrian, and the proper method of dealing with these applications has been under consideration. Government are advised that one of the effects of a declaration of war is to dissolve ipso facto all contracts of partnership between British and enemy subjects. In the case, therefore, of firms where the partners are British and German or Austrian subjects, the partnership would appear to be ipso facto dissolved, and the firms must decide whether they wish to carry on the business under British or German or Austrian management; and if Government are satisfied that the German or Austrian partners have in fact ceased to have any voice in the management of the firm, and due advertisement of the fact has been made Government will be prepared, so far as Government is concerned, to recognise the remaining partners as successors in interest of the original firm and as a British firm subject to the same duties and responsibilities as are imposed by the Royal Proclamation on all persons resident, carrying on business or being in the British Empire. The same principles will be applied where neutral subjects are partners with Germans or Austrians. In the case of firms which are wholly German or Austrian or which decide to continue under German or Austrian management, a license under Royal Authority is necessary to enable them to continue their trade, and each application for such a license will be considered on its own merits with due regard to British interests.

POPULAR FEELING IN ITALY.

ITALIANS VOLUNTEER TO FIGHT WITH FRENCH ARMY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, Aug. 29.

The "Pioneer" says:—"As an indication of how popular feeling runs in Italy on the subject of the war, the passengers arriving by the mail steamers who passed through Marseilles on the way to Gibraltar report that the Italian Colony there were singing the "Marseillaise" and waving flags in the streets as lustily as the French themselves. Over a thousand Italians, it was said, had applied to be enrolled in an Italian regiment for service with the French Army. It is quite evident that Italy could not have continued to remain in the "Triple Alliance" if the Government had desired it."

LOYALTY MEETING AT LIMBDI.

A large and crowded public meeting was held on Friday last in the local Taluka school under the presidentship of H. ## DATIA BIRTHDAY DARBAR.

CONTRIBUTIONS IN AID OF IMPERIAL WAR FUND.

The birthday of his Highness the Maharaja Sahib of Datia was quietly celebrated on the 20th instant and a Durbar was held in honour of the occasion; all sirdars, officers, and leading members of every society attended the Durbar. On his Highness taking his seat in the Durbar the Dewan, Dewan Bahadur T. Chaju Ram congratulated his Highness on behalf of the State on the auspicious occasion.

In the course of his reply his Highness thanked the Dewan and all his subjects for the loyal sentiments, and assured them that one of his foremost, but sacred duty would be to look after their happiness and prosperity.

Referring to the present crisis in Europe, his Highness said:—"I have already placed at the disposal of Government my personal services, all the resources of the State and people, beside having joined with the brother chiefs in the presentation of a hospital ship, and I can assure you that I shall consider myself the happiest of mortals, if the Supreme Government in addition to utilising all the resources my State possesses, employs my personal service, in any capacity and in any part of the world.

The sentiment of loyalty to his Imperial Majesty King-Emperor, and the British Raj, expressed by my Dewan on behalf of you all, are sure signs of the support of my people and as India has been fortunate in being allowed to take part in this war for which purpose troops are being sent up and as an appeal has been made by his Excellency the Viceroy for funds to support the army going to fight the battle on our behalf, it behoves us all to respond to that appeal to the best of our power and I therefore take this opportunity of asking you to open your purse in this noble cause which is a duty most sacred to us all.

I fervently join with you all in hoping and I devoutly pray, that the war may soon come to a close with victory to British arms and glory to our most gracious monarch."

POONA LADIES' MOVEMENT.

BOMBAY SCHEME ADOPTED.

(Associated Press.)

POONA, Aug. 28.

This evening on the invitation of her Excellency Lady Wilingdon a very large number in the Council Hall in connection with the at the Council Hall in connection with the Women's Branch of the Bombay War and Relief Fund.

Her Excellency Lady Willingdon who was in the chairr, in opening the proceedings, said that she was glad to see so many ladies present. They had met, her Excellency said, to start a branch of the Women's Branch of the Bombay War and Relief Fund and she had no doubt that the Poona branch would be a great success. The office of the branch was situated in a bungalow in the Civil Lines very kindly lent for the purpose and any information that was needed would be furnished.

NATURE OF THE ORGANISATION.

Mr. Maconochie, Chairman, thus addressed those present:—Your Excellency, and Ladies,—By her Excellency's desire I will endeavour to state, as briefly as possible, the nature of the organisation which is being brought into existence to further the objects of the Women's Branch of the Bombay War and Relief Fund. At the great meeting of the women of Bombay held in the Town Hall, a week ago, the organisation adopted for that city was announced and has since then been working with conspicuous success. To enable us to get to work in Poona with the least possible delay her Excellency has decided to adopt the same organisation here. A small working committee has been appointed with her Excellency as President, five representative ladies as vice-presidentss, a treasurer, a chairman, an honorary lady secretary and an honorary general secretary. The actual work of making up or contributing clothes and comforts will be carried out by circles of ladies, each managed by a circle organiser, which will work in communication with the St. John's Ambulance Association and under the general guidance of her Excellency and the committee. An office has been secured in a central situation at No. 80 A Civil Lines, just opposite to the Post Office, and, thanks to the generosity of the owner, Mr. Ebrahim Haron Jaffer, has been placed at our disposal from the 1st September free of cost. For the office of circles organisers we have endeavoured in the first place to secure the service of ladies who by virtue of their position, official or social or the nature of their daily work, are acquainted with and can ask for the assistance of a number of helpers whose interests lie in the same direction as their own, such are the wives of heads of departments, leaders of society in the various Indian communities, wives of clergymen and directors of missionary and educational institutes. A large number have already responded to the call. All others who are willing to undertake the work are invited to communicate with the Honorary General Secretary or to apply at the central office on and after the 2nd September. No one who can collect a circle of friends need hesitate to come forward as an organiser. The more circles that are formed the better.

WORK FOR INDIAN LADIES.

As regards the Indian communities there may be practical difficulties in securing services of ladies able and willing to organise. Where such difficulties exist, it is hoped, that representative men will take office and do the organising and out of door work which their ladies are not in a position to undertake. The work of these circles will be to make up or collect clothes and other comforts for the troops on service, both European and Indian. The Surgeon-General will indicate the nature of the articles most needed and a complete list is being placed in your hands. There will be a central depot at the main office and sub-depots in various quarters of the city in the cantonment and at Kirkee. Patterns, and possibly samples of things required, will be prepared and kept ready at the depots. As regards materials some circles will no doubt have the means and the will to provide them themselves. But, many will not and in their case the materials will be obtained by the organisers from the depots. In order to ensure that only suitable garments and medical comforts are provided cutting out will be done in the first instance at any rate at the head office or depots by expert cutters. Mr. Goodwin, of Messrs. Leach and Weborny, has offered his services and it is hoped that other tailoring firms will come forward with like assistance. I may also draw the attention to Mrs. Shepppard's appeal for the assistance of ladies who can cut out themselves or lend their durzees. As the central office cannot be opened till the 2nd September, Mrs. Sheppard is kindly providing temporary accommodation for this work at No. 4 Queen's Gardens.

The first business of the circle organiser will be to form her circle. She should then determine in consultation with her workers what class and quantity of work they can undertake and get into communication with the central office. Thereafter she will arrange to draw supplies from the depots, distribute the work to the members of her circle, and return the finished articles as soon as possible to the depot. It will also be necessary to keep some simple accounts in the forms that will be provided. As to the internal management of the circles and the time, place, and manner in which the work will be done it is Her Excellency's particular desire that such matters should be left to be decided by the circles themselves. There will no doubt be ladies anxious to help who have not the time or skill to work themselves. From such contributions in money or purchased articles will be equally welcome and no one need be deterred from joining a circle by want of time or manual skill. Contributions in money or kind may be sent to the central office, either direct or through the circle organiser.

Apart from the work of the circles miscellaneous articles in the way of comforts that are likely to be of use to the troops, whether on transports at sea or on active service, and comforts for others, men, women, and children, who are sufferers from the effects of the war, will be acceptable and may be sent direct to the central office. Gifts of raw material in large quantities, woollen, cotton and linen clothes, knitting wool, needles, tape, sewing cotton, etc., are urgently required and should also be sent to the central office as early as possible. It is hoped that the central office will be opened on the 2nd September. To begin with the office will be kept open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and all enquiries will be immediately attended to."

Surgeon-General Lyons then addressed the meeting on how best to assist the sick and wounded which was followed by an exhortation from Lady Jehangir and a speech by Mrs. Ramabai Ranade in Marathi, Lady Barrett, also addressing the meeting and assuring those present that as soldiers' wives their help in the movement would be given without the asking.

Cheers for Lady Willingdon concluded the proceedings.

THE NAVY LEAGUE.

To the Editor of "The Chronicle."

Sir,—The outbreak of the great War in which the resources of several nations, both on sea and land, will be strained to the utmost finds Britain strong in possession of the finest and most powerful navy which the world has ever seen. It is no exaggeration to say that amongst the factors which have worked for the attainment of this great result the action of the Navy League holds a very prominent—if not the most prominent—place.

Being an organization which recognizes no party and owes no allegiance to any one but the State, it has been able to exert a great influence on the Councils of Liberals and Unionists alike in matters that affect the Navy, and its endeavour has always been to force to the front and keep there the question of the necessity of "maintaining the fleet at the requisite standard of strength" to ensure that Britain shall maintain the command of the sea.

But to carry on its work of constant supervision of all matters relating to the welfare of the Navy, and to keep constantly before the public the paramount importance of maintaining it in a state of efficiency and preparedness, calls for a very considerable expenditure of money.

There is little that an Indian branch of the League can do beyond supporting the resources of head quarters in London with subscriptions, and therefore there is little to show for all the hard work for the League carried on for many years past by the Local Honorary Secretary Mr. A. M. Reith. The Branch assists in the distribution of maps in this country and encourage the teaching of naval history in schools; but the interest of members is apt to flag when there is so little tangible result to show, and after all it is not the visible effects of the working of any one branch that matters so much as the aid it is able to afford to the central institution where the active propaganda work is carried on.

The annual subscription for membership is so small—only £1-1-0 or Rs. 16—that even at the present moment, when all are being called upon to give of their means in alleviation of the suffering and distress which war entails, we have no hesitation in asking for fuller support for the Navy League.

A single subscription of ten guineas or Rs. 160 entitles the donor to life membership.

The Honorary Secretary Mr. A. M. Reith, King's Buildings, Hornby Road, will be glad to enrol intending subscribers and give them any information they may require.

SEQUEL TO KURLA SLAUGHTER HOUSE CASE

As reported in our columns, the Superintendent of the Kurla Slaughter house Mr. K. V. Narulkar, and his subordinate inspector, Abdul Latif, were recently charged by Mr. A. H. Pirzada, Secretary Kurla Municipality, before Mr. Manilal, First class Magistrate, Thana with breach of trust in respect of n item of Rs. 5 alleged to have been paid by a butcher, Hiraji, as the slaughtering fee for one buffalo.

The accused in this case were acquitted, and notice was ordered to issue against the Secretary caliing upon him to show cause why sanction for his prosecution under sec. 211 I. P. C. should not be granted; and a similar notice was ordered to issue against Mr. M. S. F. Shamikh and the butchers Hiraji and Saifuddin to show cause why they should not be proceeded against under sec. 193 I. P. C. This matter came for argument on Saturday last.

Mr. Kazi Kabiruddin, barrister appeared for the Secretary and other respondents, while Mr. R. G. Gupte, pleader, represented the exonerated parties.

Taking up the notice against the Secretary first, counsel said, he was merely a servant of the municipality. He had no voice whatever in starting the prosecution against the accused, which was launched, as admitted, by the Chairman at his initiative. The surprise visit to the Slaughter house also was suggested and arranged by Mr. Rodrigues. There having been a resolution of the Kurla Municipal Board sanctioning the prosecution, the Secretary as their agent or representative duly commenced proceedings against the accused. The granting of the sanction to prosecute him would, therefore, be quite illogical and unjust. Moreover, it appeared, continued counsel, that it was due to a preconceived pvejudice in the Magistrate's mind arising from his "unpleasant experience of the Kurla Municipal staff" to which he had referred in his report to the District Magistrate, that he was led to take a distorted view of the case and if it had not been for this prejudice, and the failure to examine some of the most important witnesses for the prosecution, the magistrate might have arrived at a different finding.

The magistrate remarked that though his opinion regarding the Kurla Municipal staff was not a glowing one, yet he would assure Mr. Kabiruddin that he had arrived at his conclusion after a most dispassionate appreciation of all the essential evidence in the case.

Mr. Gupte said that though on the one hand he was glad that his clients were honourably acquitted, yet on the other he was sorry that the witnesses he was prepared to produce for the defence could not be examined, as the accused were acquitted without any charge being framed against them, his worship having held that no prima facie case was made out. But it was not yet too late. If the court would grant sanction for the prosecution of the respondents, there would be an opportunity offered for his witnesses to be heard. Their evidence, Mr. Gupte said would leave not a shadow of doubt that his clients were the unfortunate victims of a deep laid conspiracy engineered by the Chairman and the Secretary to entrap them into the meshes of disgrace and ruin.

The matter was adjourned till the 4th prox.

ALLEGED KIDNAPPING OF A PRABHU GIRL.

On Saturday last, Baboo Hoosein, a Mahomedan lad, about seventeen years of age, was charged by the Thana Police, before Mr. Manilal, First Class Magistrate, Thana, under sec. 363 I. P. C. with having on 14th June last, kidnapped a minor girl named Vachalabai from the lawful guardianship of her father, Vithal Mahipat Deshpande, a Prabhu by caste, who has an English bar in Magheri, Thana.

The magistrate said there appeared to be a woman at the bottom of this case. It would, he though, be a step in the right direction if this woman, Sakoobai, were made to take her trial side by side with the present accused Baboo Hoosein, as there was an allegation made by the girl herself that Sakoobai had helped in keeping her concealed in a room in Bombay with a padlock on the outside of the door.

The magistrate also remarked that he had been given immense trouble by the girl. When she was arrested and told to go back to her parents, she created a scene and was violently obstinate, and no amount of persuasion would induce her to return to her home. It was unfortunate that she had to be forcibly taken away by her father, but that could not be helped for after all she was a girl presumed for the present to be a minor, and she could not be allowed to go adrift. Her father was the proper person to take charge of her. The girl had complained of the ill-treatment of her father towards her.

Mr. F. S. Patel, pleader, made an application for the liberation of the accused on bail.

The magistrate said that as the point in respect of age was yet in dispute, he would release the accused on bail of Rs. 300, but he warned the accused that if he learnt that he was making any overtures to the girl, or holding any communication with her through his agent Sakoobai, or any other person, he would take serious notice of his conduct.

LICENSING OF MILCH CATTLE STABLES.

In March last the Bombay Corporation had, on the request of Government, asked for a report from the Municipal Commissioner for further information as to the provision to be made by the municipality for the removal of milch cattle in excess of the number licensed for a stable.

In reporting on the subject, the Commissioner states as follows:—

"Both the health and the licensing departments anticipate considerable difficulty in enforcing any such removal and neither department is desirous of undertaking the work. The duty, however, should properly fall on the licensing department. It will have to be assisted by the veterinary and the sanitary staff of the health department. It would be necessary to provide a municipal stable in the north of the island. For other parts of the city, provision can be made in the municipal milch cattle stable at Kamathipura. The animals which should be removed would be preferably those which have last arrived in the stable if this could be ascertained from an examination of the stable books or otherwise. But if this were not possible, the superintendent should be authorised to remove any animals over the licensed number. The charge for detention in the municipal stable should be so heavy as to make the owner remove them as soon as possible to a stable with proper accommodation. The municipality should only provide such fodder as would be necessary to keep the animals alive, but should be declared not to be responsible for the welfare of the animals which would be looked after by the owner just as the animals at present in the infectious diseases hospital. The charges for the detention and the cost of fodder should be payable before the removal of the animals. Action such as that indicated above will be necessary if the overcrowding of animals in licensed stables is continued. Although these steps will in my opinion be perfectly practicable, they will undoubtedly be accompanied by a certain amount of difficulty and in view of the deterrent fines which have in some recent cases been inflicted by the presidency magistrates I do not think that it is necessary immediately to ask for an amendment of the act in this direction. If the necessity arises, I shall address the Cirporation again on the subject."

FASHIONS OF TO-DAY.

14 pieces fancy Alpacca.

(From our Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 8.

The chilly days we have been experiencing lately found a really sensible garment in the shape of the ubiquitous cape; for while the sun was showing his power at the rate of 92deg. in the shade it did seem a trifle unnecessary to wear a cloak, even if it were only slung from one shoulder. When his majesty hid his face, however, a real use was found for it; and one wisely wrapped oneself in its folds snugly as a protection while the cold wind was blowing. The prettiest examples of the fashionable cape-wrap are those of reversible satin; as, made in that material, one really can claim to have two capes. A lovely one I saw a few days ago was black one side, grey the other; and the collar and straps of reversible plaid silk. The grey side worn over black was very smart indeed; and the same might be said of the black side worn over grey. Anyhow, it was a very useful possession.

A SMART TAILOR-MADE.

In the illustration is shown the much-favoured double tunic coat, made of tussore. The accompanying collar is of tête-de-negre satin, and the buttons are covered with tussore. The delightful hat to accompany the costume is in tête-de-negre straw, and is trimmed with cherry-red ribbon. It will be noted that the skirt is rather severely plain, with a seam up the centre front. The coat is really the feature, and is completed by a three-quarter belt and huge buttons and simulated loops. Altogether a most useful and practical costume for general wear when the days are too warm to allow the use of the ever-popular lingerie frock.

A DELIGHTFUL BLOUSE.

Depicted here we have a very smart blouse in shell-pink crêpe-de-chine. The trimming consists of the small pearl buttons down the centre. The dainty collar, the cuffs, and the folded vest are of spotted écru net, and the buckles are of mother-o'-pearl to match the buttons. It will be noted that the line is about in the place where Nature ed it; and that a considerable amount ch is permitted. The sleeves are set in at the shoulder, and are quite long.

PRETTY FROCK FOR CHILD.

A pretty little frock for seaside wear is represented here, made up of red and white striped zephyr cut on the cross. There is a pinafore effect which is a novelty likely to please its small wearer, cut from plain white linen. This is buttonholed in red; and the tie and smart little slotted sash match the stripes perfectly, and so does the hair ribbon. The sleeves are loose, being only very slightly drawn in at the elbow, with a ribbon like the sash, tie, and bow. It will be noted that the tie which so smartly completes the pinafore front is drawn through worked slots, and knotted loosely.

MOBILISING A NATION.

WHAT IT MEANS.

Writing on July 28, to the "Daily Chronicle" from Parame, Mr. G. H. Perris said:—

Before me, under the uncertain sunshine the characteristic gaieties of a French plage: on the broad yellow sands, rows of bathing cabins and multi-coloured tents; in the rockey pools, bare-legged hunters; on the digue, their elder brothers and sisters, a butterfly throng in full summer finery. And behind, rising more and more loudly out of the East, the rumour of imminent War.

Under the shadow of the ancient fortifications a wildly eager crowd has gathered around the newspaper men. The Paris mail has just come in; and in five minutes every copy of the "Matin" and "Journal" has been bought and is being devoured. The latest bulletins are posted in the offices of the Societe Generale, and here there is another anxious crowd. Mme Caillaux has suddenly dropped over the horizon of the national consciousness; for, when the fire-bell rings, men forget about the theatre. Here, in Europe proper, on the old war-racked Continent, where the final calamity has threatened for a generation with ever more instant menace, war is not a mere political event, or a mildly thrilling spectacle as to us islanders.

For good or ill, from the Baltic to the Middle Sea, from Brittany into far Siberia universal service has done its work. A few thousands of elder men remember Gravelotte, and Mars-la-Tour, and the crowning shame of Sedan. But hundreds of millions of European workers have been brought up in the school of hatred and fear, trained daily for two or three years, and afterwards by constant reminder, to contemplate slaughter upon a scafe altogther unprecedented and almost unimaginable. They have readily given these years of their young manhood, as they naively believed, to maintain the peace. That this sacrifice may be wasted, and sacrifices infinitely larger be required, because of some petti-fogging dispute far away on the Danube, is a startling idea. "What's Hecuba to me?" they might say; and, if they were quite frank, most of them would add; "And where is Servia anyway?"

THE OUTBREAK OF HOSTILITIES

What, then, would the outbreak of hostilities on the larger scale mean for the average peaceable family, let us say, of Paris? At first perhaps, a certain appearance of nationalistic fervour. The practical pacifists whom nearly all the papers dub "anti-patriots"—(crowds of them have already been parading in the working-class, quarters, to the cry of "Vive la Paix!")—would be put down with a heavy hand. Some attempt might be made to obstruct the work of mobilisation; but the police would now be virtually a branch of the army, and martial law would be imposed on the least sign of trouble. The Labour and Socialist leaders would be watched closely; all public buildings would be h by pickets with fixed bayonets. The whole energy of the Government central and local, would be given to the mobilisation. Hundreds of thousands of men would have to be moved to the front and its supporting centres, with supplies of food, clothing, tents, and all kinds of munities of war, artillery horses, and fdoder.

Plans for these enormous movements having been long prepared, the day of the declaration of war would see the greater part of the transport of the country pass into the hands of the Government. So, when M. Jacques Bonhomme started out for the city from his suburban home he would probably find the ordinary train service suspended. Train after train full reservists would pass through the little station; and he would turn away only to find tha tmost of the omnibuses and taxi-cabs had also been commandeered, and that the neighbouring stables, on which, he depended for his Sunday excursion, dare not give him a fiacre, official orders being expected immediately. Happily, the Metropolitan and the Seine steamboats cannot be sent to the front; and so, after a long walk, M. Bonhomme reaches his office, three hours late.

BUSINESS AT A STANDSTILL.

This matters less than it might in happier times, for business has come to a standstill, and the good man's two assistants have both been spirited away, items in the great stream that is now flowing toward the Vosges. At the Cafe Poincare our little merchant with difficulty obtains a meagre meal, for the staff has been decimated. But it is only when he has visited his market and the Coulisse that he begins to realise the magnitude of the disturbance which some ridiculous statesman whose name he does not know has let loose upon a long-suffering world. Communications with Germany are altogether stopped; with Switzerland, Italy, and Belgium traffic continues, subject to long delay and increasing uncertainty. Provincial supplies of all kinds are already interrupted, and prices have begun to rise, as the value of M. Bonhomme's savings, in Rents and Russian have begun to fall.

For Madame the last trump seemed to sound when her two sons joined their regiment. There is now only the elder daughter, Lucille, at home, and she brings a grievous story from the Grand Magasin where she works as secretary to the manager. The vast shop seems like a graveyard. Only the girls and women are left behind the counter and nothing has been done all day. Happily, it is between the seasons for fashion; but the holiday trade is ruined, and hands must be dismissed wholesale. Perhaps a few of them will find work at the army clothing factories, the only busy places, rumour says. Only two of the newspapers have succeeded in producing small evening editions, and even these contain nothing definite from the front. The Censorship is in being: Paris asks in vain for news of its children.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY FAMILIES.

This is but the beginning: who knows what will follow? There will be the question of feeding the scores of thousands of poor families whose breadwinners have been torn away. The Government is supposed to have made plans for their relief: it is one of a class of official secrets that is becoming more and more suspect. One class of reservists after another will be called to the colours; and every new call means more furnaces extinguished, more mills stopped, more shops and offices closed, more fields untilled, more neglect of the old and young, the sick and helpless. Then the news of great battles will begin to come in, followed by hospital trains and demands for more reinforcement. And still this is only the beginning. We do not know even what a general mobilisation would be like in the circumstances of to-day, for no Great Power has gone so far in our time. Still less can we foresee the course of a campaign extending across Europe. Least of all can we tell its outcome, though it is likely enough that, in that hell-fire, more than one royal and Imperial crown would disappear.

In Mr. Wells's latest book of prophecy—a rather sad jumble of his best and worst—there is an excellent bit of satire at the cost of a hypothetical French genralissimo of 1950. He is a fine figure, le brave General; it brings tears to the eyes (of women) to see his clear-cut jaw and steely glance, his evident knowledge and readiness. In fact he has attained this rare piece of knowledge with regard to modern warfare: that nobody knows what will happen. Unfortunately, he keeps this wisdom to himself, and pays with his life for a moment of idolatry. We do not know to what frightful length the devilry of war may now extend. But we know that the pride of Vienna and the obstinacy of Belgrade are not worth a single moment of a single day of all the miseries they may entail.

A column of white-smocked conscripts, singing at the top of their voices, tramps along the sands. Poor little Piou-Piou. If it be war—poor boys!

THE CALL TO ARMS.

BELGIAN KING'S APPEAL TO HIS PEOPLE.

Speaking in the Belgian Chamber in mail week, M. de Broqueville, the Premier, announced that the fourteenth and the fifteenth classes of the reserves had been called to the colours, and then read the German Note and the Belgian reply thereto. M. Vandervelde, the Socialist leader, has been appointed a Minister of State.

The King delivered the following speech to the deputies:

Never since 1830 has a graver hour sounded for Belgium. The strength of our rights and the need of Europe for our autonomous existence make us still hope that the dreaded events will not occur. If it is necessary for us to resist an invasion of our soil, however, that duty will find us armed and ready to make the greatest sacrifices. Our young men have already come forward to defend the Fatherland in danger.

One duty alone is imposed upon us, namely, the maintenance of a stubborn resistance, courage, and union. Our bravery is proved by our faultless mobilisation and by the multitude of voluntary engagements. This is the moment for action. I have called you together in order to allow the Chambers to participate in the enthusiasm of the country. You will know how to adopt with urgency all necessary measures. Are you decided to maintain inviolate the sacred patrimony of our ancestors?

No one will fail in his duty, and the army is capable of performing its task. The Government and I are fully confident. The Government is aware of its responsibilities, and will carry them out to the end to guard the supreme welfare of the country. If a stranger should violate our territory he will find all the Belgians gathered round their Sovereign, who will never betray his constitutional oath. I have faith in our destinies. A country which defends itself wins the respect of everyone, and cannot perish.
